GRCA Hot Topics

CHANGES IN AGILITY REGULATIONS Chapter 1 Section 2. (paragraph 4) Single breed specialties that have been approved to share a location may run their events consecutively sharing the same judge. Specialty clubs holding a limited agility trial for all AKC recognized breeds may accept entries of dogs of their own breed first then accept entries from all breeds until the entry limit specified in the premium list is reached. Example: the XYZ Golden Retriever Club could set an opening for sixty days of which the first 30 days would accept Golden Retrievers only and then fill the rest of the entry with all breeds. The age at which a dog may enter agility events has also been raised from 12 months to 15 months.

PBS TELEVISION SHOW ON THE BREEDS. The Public Broadcasting System network is filming a series of half-hour programs on 12 various breeds of dogs; they've selected the Golden Retriever as one of the first to be filmed in May. They've been given access to a number of GRCA's historic documents and current education publications. The series will air sometime this fall; we'll let everyone know exact dates when we know.

CANINE GENOME SEQUENCE The AKC Canine Health Foundation is pleased to announce that with the pilot phase complete, the Canine Health Information Center (CHIC) DNA Repository is now open to all participating breeds. The pilot program kicked off at the Golden Retriever national specialty held on September 26, 2005 where CHIC collected more than 600 samples. Since then, more than 200 more samples have been collected demonstrating the outstanding commitment of Golden Retriever breeders and owners to this worthwhile project. Now, the canine sequence takes its place alongside the human and mouse genome as one of five premier tools that researchers worldwide will have at their fingertips – leading to the promise of quicker results, faster tests, and definitive therapies in the fight against canine and human disease.

Whoever said 'LET SLEEPING DOGS LIE" didn't sleep with dogs.

The first thing you discover when you bring a dog onto your bed is the striking difference in weight between an alert, awake dog and a dog at rest.

Rule Number One: The deeper the sleep the heavier the dog. Most people who sleep with dogs develop spinal deformities rather than rent the heavy equipment necessary to move their snoring canines to a more appropriate part of the bed. Cunning canines steal precious space in tiny increments until they have achieved the center position on the bed with all covers carefully tucked under them for safekeeping. The stretch and roll method is very effective in gaining territory. Less subtle tactics are sometimes preferred. A jealous dog can worm his way between a sleeping couple and, with the proper spring action from all our legs, shove a sleeping human to the floor.

Rule Number Two: Dogs possess superhuman strength while on a bed. As you cling to the edge of the bed, wishing you had covers, your sweet pup begins to snore at a volume you would not have thought possible. Once that quiets down, the dog dreams begin. Yipping, growling, running, kicking. Your bed becomes a battlefield and playground of canine fantasy. It starts out with a bit of "sleep running", lots of eye movement and then, suddenly, a shrieking howl blasted through the night like a banshee wail. The horror of this wake-up call haunts you for years. It's particularly devastating when your pup insists on sleeping curled around your head like a demented Daniel Boone cap.

Rule Number Three: The deeper the sleep, the louder the dog. The night creeps on and you fall asleep in three inches of bed not claimed by a dog. The dog dreams quiet slightly and the heap of dogflesh sleeps - breathing heavily and passing wind. Then, too soon, it's dawn and the heap stirs. Each dog has a distinctive and unpleasant method of waking the pack. One may position itself inches from a face and stare until you wake. The clever dog obtains excellent results by simply sneezing on your face, or they could romp all over your sleeping bodies - or the ever-loving insertion of a tongue in an unsuspecting ear.

Rule Number Four: When the dog wakes - you wake. So, why do we put up with this? There's no sane reason. Perhaps it's just that we're a pack and a pack heaps together at night - safe, contented, heavy and loud.
