Proofing for the Show Ring

After taking a rather hard fall in the ring recently, I was reminded to never forget to “bait proof” Dooley before going into the show ring. As I was gaiting him full speed, he spotted a large piece of liver and dived for it, crossing over right in front of me. Needless to say, I ran into him and took a backward spill. I was lucky – no damage done, except a little sore the next day.

What I had done before, but not that day, was to place bait on the floor right before going in the ring and gaiting him directly over it. When he would start to go for it, or even looked at it, I gave him a gentle reminder with the lead to look at me. Then I gave him a nice size piece of bait as a reward. After that, I would place several pieces of bait in a path and gait him near it. I would do the same thing with a little tug on the lead if he even considered the floor bait instead of mine. He had learned his lesson pretty fast in the past... Unfortunately, he had forgotten the lesson the day of this show.

If I had seen the bait in the ring before going in, I would have asked the steward to get it. One of the purposes of a ring steward is to be sure the judge’s ring is in good shape and to keep the judging running smoothly. If the steward wasn’t handy, I would have pointed it out to the judge. Judges don’t like bait in their ring any more than the handlers do, and they are usually eager to go pick it up themselves if necessary. Once I even stopped dead in my tracks on a down and back when my dog started pulling to get to food on the floor. I just stuck it in my pocket, went back to the judge, and started over. A judge cannot correctly evaluate a dog’s movement if he is pulling to the side.

A lot of time bait is dropped accidentally, but some handlers actually intentionally throw and/or drop bait in the ring to distract the competition. If that handler is right in front of you and drops a chunk of bait on the go-around, there’s no time to pick it up. Just hope your dog doesn’t dive for it. This kind of unsportsmanlike conduct may seem hard to believe (to the novice anyway), but the top-winning handler of years ago, George Alston, offers a special advanced handling course in “Tricks of the Trade”, and bait dropping is one of the “tricks”. His course is not how to do the tricks, but how to handle the situation when it occurs.

My lesson learned and a strong suggestion for any handler:

1. On entering the ring, don’t forget to check for bait on the floor and either pick it up, ask the steward to do it, or tell the judge about it.
2. With a highly food motivated dog, don’t forget to take a few minutes before each show to “bait proof” him to see if he remembers his lesson.

Of course, even taking these precautions, there’s no guarantee I won’t trip over a dog again...just hope a few sore muscles is as bad as it gets.

AKC RULE CHANGE ALLOWS OWNERS TO RENAME THEIR DOGS

New York, NY- The American Kennel Club® (AKC) is pleased to announce a registration rule change that now allows owners of AKC registered dogs to change the official name of their pet. Dogs are eligible if they were born in the U.S., have never been bred, or have not won any awards at an AKC event.

“We have a lot of interest from AKC registered dog owners looking to rename their dogs,” said David Roberts, AKC’s Assistant Vice President of Registration. “In most cases, the dog is a beloved pet and the owner would like to pick a name that has special value to them. The new rule allows owners to change the name when transferring their AKC registered dog, or to request a name change at any time.”

Previously, a policy was in place that only allowed the owner to change a dog’s name if the dog had been individually registered by its breeder and the request was accompanied by written permission from the breeder. The new regulation reads:

“The name of a dog registered with The American Kennel Club will be allowed to be changed provided the dog was whelped in the United States and in cases where the breeder(s) first individually registered the dog, their written consent would be required. A dog name containing a Registered Kennel Name cannot be changed without the written consent of the owner(s) of that Registered Kennel Name.

However, no change in the name will be recorded by The American Kennel Club after the dog has produced or sired an AKC registered litter or received an award at an AKC licensed or member event.

Any name change must comply with all AKC requirements.”

The service fee for a name change is $25. The Dog Name Change Authorization form is located online at <http://www.akc.org/pdfs/ADCG01.pdf>. The completed form can be faxed to the AKC at: 919-816-4261 or mailed to the address on the application

This week I had the first case in history of raisin toxicity ever seen at MedVet. My patient was a 56-pound, 5 yr old male neutered lab mix that ate half a canister of raisins sometime between 7:30 AM and 4:30 PM on Tuesday. He started with vomiting, diarrhea and shaking about 1AM on Wednesday but the owner didn't call my emergency service until 7AM. I had heard somewhere about raisins AND grapes causing acute Renal failure but hadn't seen any formal paper on the subject. We had her bring the dog in immediately. In the meantime, I called the ER service at MedVet, and the doctor there was like me - had heard something about it, but.... Anyway, we contacted the ASPCA National Animal Poison Control Center and they said to give I V fluids at 1 1/2 times maintenance and watch the kidney values for the next 48-72 hours.

The dog's BUN (blood urea nitrogen level) was already at 32 (normal less than 27) and creatinine! Over 5 (1.9 is the high end of normal). Both are monitors of kidney function in the bloodstream. We placed an IV catheter and started the fluids. Re-checked the renal values at 5 PM and the BUN was over 40 and creatinine over 7 with no urine production after a liter of fluid . At the point I felt the dog was in acute renal failure and sent him on to MedVet for a urinary catheter to monitor urine output overnight as well as overnight care.

He started vomiting again overnight at MedVet and his renal values have continued to increase daily. He produced urine when given lasix as a diuretic. He was on 3 different anti-vomiting medications and they still couldn't control his vomiting Today his urine output decreased again, his BUN was over 120, his creatinine was at 10, his phosphorus was very elevated and his blood pressure, which had been staying around 150, skyrocketed to 220.. He continued to vomit and the owners elected to Euthanize.

This is a very sad case - great dog, great owners who had no idea raisins could be a toxin. Please alert everyone you know who has a dog of this very serious risk. Poison control said as few as 7 raisins or grapes 6 could be toxic. Many people I know give their dogs grapes or raisins as treats including our ex-handler's. Any exposure should give rise to immediate concern.

Onions, chocolate, cocoa and macadamia nuts can be fatal, too.

Even if you don't have a dog, you might have friends who do. This is worth passing on to them.

Confirmation from Snopes about the above...

If you've ever...

Choked back tears watching a golden whelp a litter..

Or watch a pup wobble to his feet for the first time...

Or watching your four legged friend wobble to his feet after surgery...

Or chuckled to yourself as you watched a child play with him..

Or had your heart stop when you saw your golden lying motionless on a sunny day -- and waited breathlessly to see an eyelid or ear flicker...

Or sucked in your breath as your golden rapidly traversed challenging terrain...

Or sworn a solemn oath to your golden that together you would triumph...

Or flipped through the TV channels and stopped when you saw a golden...even when it was a commercial..

Or laughed aloud when you rubbed his face and he rubbed back...

Or stood in awe at your golden playing as he sprinted around, stopped, head erect, and showed defiance at the rest of the world...

Or felt calmed by the sleekness of a well groomed soft hair-coat beneath your hand...

Or felt your jaw drop as you watched him perform his first perfect retrieve on a cool morning...

Or felt warmed by his soft expression greeting you as you returned home...

If you've ever been moved by any of these feelings, you know you are a golden person.

Thank goodness we have our love of goldens to share our journey.

Dedicated to the founder and keepers of the breed.

To me ,,,, it just looked liked everyone had such a great time..It may have been the most fun we have had with our dogs in a long time.....Seeing people who had probably never thought about trying Agility working their dogs... And all of our dogs did such a fantastic job.... Bonnie couldn't say enough nice things about our Group and our Dogs...It was a Very Cool night.....

I would like to thank all of you that came that night...
Kathy Felix

The Paws for Applause evening was alot of fun. I learned a lot of new things to introduce young/new dogs to agility. It is always fun to learn new steps for young dogs, especially since I have been involved in agility about 14 years.

American Kennel Club Cautions Owners: Pet Theft on the Rise

[Tuesday, April 08, 2008]

-- Dog Owners and Breeders Advised to Keep Dogs Safe at Home and on the Road --

The American Kennel Club® is warning pet owners and breeders about an alarming rise in dog thefts in recent months. From parking lots to pet stores and even backyards, more dogs are disappearing. In the first three months of 2008, the AKC has tracked more than 30 thefts from news and customer reports, versus only ten for all twelve months of 2007.

Media reports have chronicled the escalation of these "dog-nappings" from all around the country. Incidents have included armed robbers entering a breeder's home, tiny puppies being stuffed into purses at pet stores and most recently, purebred pets being snatched from cars in parking lots and even shelters.

"The value of pets in people's lives has been on the rise for a long time and now we are seeing thieves trying to capitalize on this. Whether they seek to re-sell the dog, collect a ransom or breed the dogs and sell their offspring, thieves seem to be attuned to the increased financial and emotional value pets have in our lives," said AKC spokesperson Lisa Peterson. "Losing a treasured family pet is devastating to the owner."

"Criminals look for weaknesses and exploit them. They know pets can't protect themselves, so that means owners need to be alert," said Lt. John Kerwick, a law enforcement K-9 handler and the President of the U.S. Police Canine Association, Region 7. "Be wary of anyone who approaches you and asks too many questions about your dog or where you live. This is a red flag that they may be out to snatch your pet."

Peterson added that "These 'dog-nappers' are misguided and naïve. They're stealing living beings, not jewelry that can be pawned. Plus, it's unlikely that they can sell the dogs for high prices without proper registration papers, and these inept criminals are not realistically going to collect a ransom. Caring for a dog -- and especially breeding -- is a time consuming endeavor that requires a lot of knowledge. Thieves will find themselves with a frightened and confused animal that needs a lot of care."

The AKC offers the following advice to prevent your "best friend" from being a target of a crime:

At Home

* Don't let your dog off-leash — Keeping your dog close to you reduces the likelihood it will wander off and catch the attention of thieves. A Saint Bernard that had wandered away from his owner in Nebraska was snatched up right off the road.* Don't leave your dog unattended in your yard — Dogs left outdoors when no one is home for long periods of time can be potential targets, especially if you live in a rural area and the fenced-in yard or dog runs are visible from the street.

* Keep purchase price to yourself — If strangers approach you to admire your dog during walks, don't answer questions about how much the dog cost or give details about where you live.

* Breeders need to be aware of home visits by potential puppy buyers — Criminals posing as would be "puppy buyers" have visited breeder homes to snatch dogs, while other homes have been burglarized when the owner was away. From Yorkies in Los Angeles to Bulldogs in Connecticut, thieves have targeted young puppies of these highly coveted breeds.

On the Road

* Never leave your dog in an unattended car, even if it's locked — Even if you are gone for only a moment, an unlocked car is an invitation for trouble. Also leaving expensive items in the car such as a GPS unit or laptop will only invite thieves to break and possibly allow the dog to escape.

* Don't tie your dog outside a store — This popular practice among city dwelling dog owners can be a recipe for disaster. Reports have surfaced of such thefts in Manhattan. If you need to go shopping, patronize only dog-friendly retailers or leave the dog at home.

* Be vigilant when entering or leaving establishments or venues catering to dogs such as grooming salons, veterinarians, doggie day care or hotels — Be aware of your surroundings, such as slow moving vehicles, or people watching you and your dog. Carry pepper spray as a precaution and, if possible, don't walk alone late at night or stay in a well lit area.

Recovery

* Protect your dog with microchip identification — Collars and tags can be removed so make sure you have permanent ID with a microchip. Keep contact information current with your recovery service provider. Several pets have been recovered because of alert people scanning and discovering microchips. For more information and to enroll your pet in a 24 hour recovery service visit www.akccar.org.

* If you suspect your dog has been stolen — Immediately call the police / animal control in the area your pet was last seen.

* Have fliers with a recent photo ready to go if your dog goes missing — Keep a photo of your dog in your wallet or on an easily accessible web account so that you can distribute immediately if your pet goes missing.

AGILITY IN AUGUST

DFWMGRC's First Agility Trial will be held August 16-17, 2008 at Watt Arena in Fort Worth.

SUPPORT THE CLUB...

WE NEED RAFFLE ITEMS FOR OUR RAFFLE!
Please contact Kathy Felix at k.felix@tx.rr.com or (817)478-1907 to let her know what you can donate. If you don't know exactly what you can donate, just let her know you will donate "something." Remember -- it's an all-breed trial, so non-breed-specific items and agility items will be most appreciated.

VOLUNTEER! We'll need several workers on Friday afternoon, August 15, to help unload the trailer. This usually takes around an hour to an hour and a half. We also will need volunteers to work some hours on Saturday and Sunday, specifically Sunday afternoon to help load the trailer. No particular skills required. You don't have to work all weekend. Again, please contact Kathy Felix at k.felix@tx.rr.com or (817)478-1907 to let her know you when you will be available to help.

Sale/Swap Corner

Do you have something to sell or trade? You can list it here or you can make a request to see if someone has an extra dog item he or she might be willing to sell.

Club Shirt for Sale

I ordered a dark green shirt with embroidery in XL. Well it certainly is XL. If anyone is interested in purchasing it, I am willing to sell it. I am going to order another one in a smaller size.

I will sell it for the mere price of $30.00. That's cheaper than ordering a new one from Donna (34.00)
